■ This ESD program teaches not only environmental awareness but cross-cultural understanding through the promotion of art appreciation. Taking time to observe a painting is an act of listening carefully, or engaging in a silent dialogue. This is a holistic approach to learning and communication that tries to incorporate the cultural and spiritual dimensions of how we interact with one another and with our environments. As we are all connected through water, we hope to nurture that understanding so that we can all be better inspired to work better together.
