General advice and comments of the EREC:

The committee noted that the project is progressing steadily, in spite of major constraints on international travel and fieldwork.

There was concern that the project is very complex, with numerous activities in many places and a large number of core project members. This makes it hard to understand the overall situation of the project and the degree of integration of the parts. Next year, such integration of components and activities as well as easy-to-grasp presentation of all the elements and their connection should receive extra attention.
