General advice and comments of the EREC

The committee recognizes some important progress by engaging with the SusN project, in further defining the core concepts and approach, and with FD workshops in several locations and with different groups of participants from civil society, government, and organizations. The addition of a process of “Past Design” is also commendable as a contrasting a means of providing perspective for consideration of Future Design.

In summarizing the outcomes, the project is expected to provide a realistic and actionable claims, including analysis on evidence for change in policies or ways of thinking, which have been lacking in the project.
