

IS Research Plan

<input type="radio"/> Research title
<input type="radio"/> Research objectives
Please describe your research objective with a focus on what particular global environmental problem you will attempt to study or how you will implement your model in resolving such a problem. Also describe what you will incubate, i.e., what research seeds you are going to explore and how you will do so. (The purpose of IS is to discover new research seeds)
<input type="radio"/> Outline of the research
Does your joint research plan meet RIHN' s founding missions and basic philosophy? Please provide an outline of your research plan in a way that shows the relevance with RIHN' s basic understanding, the academic and interdisciplinary design that explores some clear and concrete solutions to issues concerning the global environment, and is capable, after a certain research period, of presenting substantial account of research results and their significance for society in general.
<input type="radio"/> Method
Please describe the geographic area(s) of your research and how you will implement your research there.
<input type="radio"/> Expected results
Please describe expected results after the completion of Full Research (5-6 years) if the research proceeds to Full Research.
<input type="radio"/> Consistency of the Requirements for Institutional Collaboration Project
In order to promote global environmental studies contributing to futurability centered on discovering interaction between human and nature promoted by RIHN, please describe how the planned approaches will meet the requirements for Individual Collaboration projects. (Please refer to the "requirements for Institutional Collaboration projects" as attached separately.)
<input type="radio"/> Contribution to Research Domain Programs and Futurability Initiatives
Please select one or more RIHN Domains (Circulation, Diversity, Resources, Ecohistory, and Ecosophy) and RIHN Futurability Initiatives (Gaia, Oikos and Ethos) to which the project will make a contribution and describe how this contribution will be made.

Please prepare your "Research Plan" (Form 1-1) using no more than three sheets. Be sure to delete the instructions in red before filling in the forms.
